ONE of his friends protests that Col. Bryan is in the race to stay. He wasn't in the war that way—Globe-Democrat.

The catch of Spanish mackerel at Miami, Fla., has been greater this season than ever before. A good year to catch anything of that nationality.

IRISH mackerel are now the popular sort with Americans. The American product is short and the friendship of this people for the Irish seems to extend even to the fish bearing their name.

WHALEBONE is not yet obsolete and may continue for some time to come to play a part in feminine fixin's. A single bark has arrived at San Francisco with seventeen hundred pounds of that springy and valuable article valued at six thousand dollars.

The last issue of the American Newspaper Directory reports over 21,000 publications in the United States and Canada, of which but little more than one-fourth have an average circulation of 1,000. THE BEE is one of the fortunate one-fourth with an average circulation of nearly double the latter number.

AMERICANS are for expansion. All agree that this is a fact. But there is a fact that emphasizes the truth of the statement. In response to organized effort to that end the memorials against expansion which have reached the Senate contain less than 2,000 names of which 1,435 are furnished by Massachusetts.

Russia is said to have forgotten her long professed friendships for the United States since this country has acquired possessions near the scenes of her present ambitions. This is unfortunate but doubtless Uncle Sam can continue to hold up his head with or without the friendship of one or more of the fellows across the big pond.

BRADSTREET's report says of the present state of business in the country: "Likening the general business of the country to that of a watercourse, it may be authoritatively stated that nearly all the channels of seasonal trade are at the present time running full, and in some lines of business the stream is virtually out of the banks."

The strength and modesty of a rugged warrior is exhibited by Gen. Lawton's brief response when called upon to speak at Montgomery, Ala. He said: "I am not an orator; I am a soldier; I am one of the sixteen thousand regular soldiers sent to Cuba. On behalf of that part of the army I commanded I thank you, people of Alabama."

At the close of last week Dunn & Company's review of trade said some comforting things about the business of the country, thus:

December is adding a surprising close to the most surprising year of American history. November surpassed all other months of the century in volume of business and production, and thus far December is doing even better in payments through clearing houses, in railroad earnings, in foreign trade, in output of pig iron, in activity and strength of securities. But that is saying a great deal, for in all these and other tests November was far the best month of American financial history.

Mr. BRYAN does not seem to be the great and only leader he was reputed to be before he went to war. There are others now who do not bow down to the earth before him. In fact his mission to Washington to tell the United States Senators and the government generally what should be done to save this great people from further wandering in darkness and the country at large from destruction seems to have been in vain. A Democratic newspaper correspondent even whispers that Mr. Bryan's "reception in Washington was decidedly chilly."

The gallant Third Kentucky Volunteers are working quietly at camp drill and discipline, being prepared better every day for the more important duties that lie before them in Cuba. Although they may not look forward to such pomp and brilliancy to attend their home coming—when they come—as has just characterized the return of the Louisville Legion—not living in the metropolis where such demonstration is only possible—their reception will be as warm-hearted and genuine when the time comes. And that there will be the best reasons for such reception no friends of the men and officers of the Third regiment entertain any sort of doubt. The most cordial good wishes and earnest prayers follow our boys to their new field of duty in Cuba, where they are to go now in a very short while.

The Country's Business.
The exports from the United States during the calendar year 1893 will exceed those of any other year in the history of the country. Up to December 2d they amounted to $1,117,681,199, and for the year will reach a total of $1,250,000,000. Only twice before have the exports reached the billion mark. The total of imports for 1893 will be less than for any calendar year since 1885.

Confederate Dead.
President McKinley's suggestion that the care of the national government be given to Confederate graves as well as to the national cemeteries now occupied by the Union soldiers who lost their lives in the civil war has received hearty endorsement throughout the country. It is said that this idea was put into Mr. McKinley's mind some years ago by a visit to Fredericksburg where he found a national cemetery and the burial place of the Confederate dead side by side in strong contrast. It is claimed that if a bill to give effect to the suggestion should be reported from a committee, it will receive an almost unanimous support from the North. The people of the South are showing by their most hospitable reception to President McKinley how they appreciate his conduct of the war and the government and his kindly suggestions as to the Confederate dead.

It is a happy suggestion at an opportune time. And, by the way, the President has the faculty of making such suggestions at such times. But this one thing seems left to complete the coming with brotherly love of South and North—to completely obliterate all traces of the old sectionalism. Let us decorate our graves together.

LOCAL OPTION FIGHT
Will Come Up Before the Next Legislature.

Frankfort, Dec. 19.—The fight made by the temperance organization and the ministers of the Gospel for a sweeping local option law during the closing days of the late Legislature will be resumed at the opening of the next General Assembly; in fact, it has already been quietly begun, and from present indications will be more vigorous than before. The Roberts Local Option Bill, which proposed to amend the present law as to make the county the unit in local option elections instead of incorporated towns or districts, is to be revived by its author, who is a hold-over Senator, so the story is told, and a well organized campaign is to be made in every county in the State to select legislators who will support it and help to enact it into a law.

FROM MCKINLEY'S GREAT SPEECH
Some of the Gems of Thought he Dropped at Atlanta.
His Suggestion of National Care for Confederate Graves.

"Sectional lines no longer mar the map of the United States."
"Sectional feelings no longer hold back the love we bear for each other."
"Fraternity is the national anthem, sung by a chorus of forty-five states and territories at home and beyond the sea. The union is once more the common altar of our love and loyalty, our devotion and sacrifice."

"The old flag again waves over us in peace with new glories which your sons and ours have this year added to its sacred folds. What cause we have for rejoicing, saddened only by the fact that so many of our brave men fell on field or sickness, and died from hardship and exposure, and others returning bring wounds and disease from which they will long suffer. The memory of the dead will be a precious legacy and the disabled will be the nation's care."

"A nation which cares for its disabled soldiers as we have done will never lack defenders. The national cemeteries for those who fell in battle are proof that the dead as well as the living have our love. What an army of silent sentinels we have and with what loving care their graves are kept."

"Every soldier's grave made during our unfortunate civil war, is a tribute to American valor. And while when these graves were made we differed widely about the future of this government, these differences were long ago settled by the arbitration of arms, and the time has now come in the evolution of sentiment and feeling under the Providence of God, when in the spirit of fraternity we should share with you in the care of the graves of the confederate soldiers."

"The cordial feeling now happily existing between the North and the South prompts this gracious act, and if it needed further justification, it is found in the gallant loyalty to the union and the flag, so conspicuously shown in the year just passed, by the sons and grandsons of those heroic dead."

"What a glorious future awaits us, if unitedly, wisely and bravely we face the new problems now pressing upon us, determined to solve them for right and humanity."

BURGLARY.
Eighty-five Dollars and a Revolver Taken From the Bed-room of

MRS. CHRISTIAN TUESDAY NIGHT.

Tuesday night a burglar entered the front window of Mrs. Christian's bed-room in her residence on Railroad street in this city and took from a compartment in her dresser two purses and a revolver. The purses were Mrs. Christian's, containing $40 in cash, and Mrs. Patterson's, containing $45. Mrs. Patterson is a cousin of Mrs. Christian, and wife of Mr. C. H. Patterson, who is in the employ of the L. & N. RR. Co., and she had left her purse with Mrs. Christian. The revolver was a 38-caliber. Mrs. Christian was sleeping in the room at the time. Nothing else was disturbed. The key had been left in the door of the dresser compartment where the purses and revolver reposed and the thief did not need to seek further. But the circumstances would seem to indicate that the job was done by some one familiar with the premises. There was a track of mixed mud from the yard on the porch near the window but of such indistinct character that it could not even be told whether the thief was barefooted or wore shoes. No clue was left behind.

LOCOMOTIVE BLASTS.

December 15th a special train, consisting of thirty cars, of woven wire fence, left the Western Avenue Station, via the Chicago, via the Chicago & North-western Railway, for Lincoln, Nebraska. The shipment was made from Adrian, Mich. This is the largest shipment of wire fencing ever made at one time over any railroad and the North-Western Line demonstrated its progressive spirit by furnishing a special train for it.

A writer in the Louisville Evening Post says: Anatomists here testified that the jaw was the most indestructible bone of the human body. It seems so from the work it does. There is in Louisville "an everlasting talker" who wastes daily enough muscular power to support his family. If one end of a piston-rod could be attached to his jaw and the other to a freight train, he could carry it to Cincinnati in two hours; simply by running along and talking to it.

The supply of coal cars on the Henderson division was equal to all demands, last week, one of the good results of requiring coal dealers to promptly unload all coal cars as soon as received.

In order that the employees should be well supplied with finances for the holidays, the pay car is passing over the L. & N., this week.

The assurance that the other five per cent will be restored to the employees of the L. & N., the first of January, has sent a thrill of joy along the line, and they are indeed proud that the company for whom they work has fulfilled all promises.

Besides the restoration of wages on the L. & N. railroad, it is said the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis will also restore the remaining 5 per cent of the wage reduction made two years ago. These are Christmas gifts that do good and they reach thousands.

DOWN IN THE MINES.

Coal dealers say the demand for coal is good enough, but that the price is rather low in proportion to the heavy demand.

The Co-operative Coal Company say they are over one hundred cases behind on orders thus far, and still they come.

Secretary Atkinson says that with mild weather for one month his company might possibly catch up with orders.

The Hecla Coal Company received a good offer for coal from a southern point, last week, but they, too, complain of their inability to fill present orders promptly.

Secretary Bailey, of the Reinecke Coal Company, did not suffer the mine to remain idle long last week when the machinery broke down, but had the damage speedily repaired.

Mr. J. B. Atkinson, President of the St. Bernard Coal Company, has just returned from a trip up in the Jellico coal regions and reports that the coal companies up there are complaining as those here, that they are unable to fill orders.

The question is asked, Why such an unprecedented demand for coal this year? and we must take for an answer the opinion of a leading coal dealer who accounts for the great demand on the ground of failure of consumers to stock any coal for winter during the summer months, the last winter or two being so pleasant that many looked for a similar season this year, and the reverse being true many families are caught unprepared for coal weather.

HAPPY CHRISTMAS FOR L. & N. EMPLOYEES.

The Remaining 5 Per Cent of the 1893 Reduction Will be Restored on January 1.

The Earnings of the Road in the Past Few Months Have Been Such to Make It Certain.

GOOD NEWS FOR MANY FOLK.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., December 19.—The 18,000 employees on the L. & N. railroad will this year enjoy the most pleasant holiday season they have known for years, and certainly the most pleasant of the past five. According to the promise made that if the earnings of the road warranted it the remaining 5 per cent of the 10 per cent reduction made in August, 1893, would be restored at the first of this year, the employees will, on January 1, begin to receive the same wages and salaries that were paid them before the dark days of 1893 settled upon the country.

The earnings of the road in the past few months have been such as to leave little doubt that the promised restoration would be made. To ascertain the facts beyond doubt however, an Evening Post reporter this morning made inquiry at the office of the General Manager and the assistant to the President, and was informed that there had been no change in the plan, and that the restoration will certainly be made.

The great road has acted through-out this matter in perfect good faith with the employees. When the reduction was first announced in circulars of August 7 and August 14, 1893, the men were promised that as soon as the earnings justified it the cut would be restored. The reduction affected all, from President Milton H. Smith to the humblest messenger. The employees acted with rare good sense. There was scarcely a grum-

An exchange says the price of coal still continues high but the prospects for cheap ice are good.

The St. Bernard Coal Company's agent at Louisville is determined to keep his patrons supplied with fuel even if he has to buy from numerous other companies to do so, when his own company fails to meet the demands.

No. 11 mineshowed up with an increased production of 4,000 bushels last week over that of the preceding week. Foreman Evans has a crew of men always ready to respond to a call for rush work.

Only an additional hour per day was worked by the St. Bernard miners last week, yet their record shows up well, in fact it is considered an improvement on the five quarters per day plan as tried two weeks previous.

The large fuel business done is not altogether confined to the coal trade, but marked improvements can be seen in the coke trade at this point.

Not only are miners being crowded with work, but a visitor to the clerical department of the St. Bernard Coal Company will find all working like beavers from early morn till late at night to keep things in shape, but the force is equal to the emergency.

The Tennessee Coal and Iron Company suffered a heavy loss last week by a burning of a tippie at one of their mines, causing them much delay and loss of trade.

Brown Coal Production in Syria. In 1887 there were employed in the Syrian coal industry 10,983 workmen, 886 women and 229 children. The total output amounted to 2,446,306 tons of brown coal, valued at $2,462,400. Most of the coal was shipped to Lower Austria.

Discussing the organization of mill operatives at Augusta, Ga., the correspondent there of the Textile American writes: "The many disagreements between capital and organized labor in the North, and the resulting distress of hundreds of operatives who have been out of employment for indefinite periods, and who have eventually been obliged to accept the will of the employer, should make the Southern operatives see that so long as they are faithful to their task and do not antagonize their employers, that they will, as heretofore, be treated most generously, and that the success of the employer means their success, while his failure means distress to them."

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand. These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged. What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak lungs and consumption in all its stages. Scott & Bowne, Chemists, New York.

ble. They accepted the decrease as inevitable, and trusted to the road to restore it as soon as possible.

Early in 1893 the employees had hopes that the restoration was a matter of a short time. The first definite statement, however, was that made by General Manager Metcalfe at the meeting of the Engineers and Firemen's Brotherhood held here last February. Mr. Metcalfe told them that part of the reduction would be restored in July and the rest as soon as possible.

Accordingly on June 27 a circular, issued under date of July 1, announcing the restoration of 5 per cent, or half of the reduction on July 1, the latter, however, being dependent on the earnings of the road continuing at the scale they had reached. Since then the earnings have increased, and the restoration of the rest of the reduction is the result.

The L. & N. is thus the greatest Santa Claus in the business. For each of the 18,000 employees whose wages are increased there will doubtless be an average of three people whose Christmas cheer will be enhanced by the good news, so it is safe to say the road will bring added happiness to 50,000 people.

L. & N. EARNINGS.

$652,224 Increase Over the Same Period for Last Year.

The following is a comparative statement of estimated gross earnings of the L. & N. road:

For second week of December	$441,240
Cor. week of last year.....	461,630
Decrease.....	20,390
Total for 2 weeks of December	$897,400
Cor. period of last year.....	898,330
Decrease.....	$930
July 1 to latest date this year	$10,699,000
Cor. period of last year.....	10,046,866
Increase.....	$652,224

There is sound sense in these words. The advice conveyed therein is based on the known facts regarding the outcome of organization in New England and the relations of employers and employees in the South. If operatives organize, they will not go amiss in making the motive of organization not antagonism of employers, but co-operation with them.—Manufacturers' Record.

Reports received from Manager Ben W. Robinson, of the Whitley Coal Company, located at Halsey, Ky., plainly indicate that as a manager he is proving to be a great success.

Mr. S. Cowart, of Heathsville, Va., has an oyster, caught between Smith's Creek and Point Lookout, in the track of ocean steamers, that is fastened to a complete set of false teeth. The oyster completely covers the top of the hard rubber plate. It is regarded by oystermen, who find bivalves attached to all sorts of things, as a great curiosity, and Mr. Cowart proposes sending it to the National Museum.

If you feel Full, Languid, Broken Down, Debilitated, have Weak Stomach or Indigestion, use Dr. M. A. Simmons' Liver Medicine.

A machine for registering the air, used in the operation of the mining machines by the St. Bernard Company is proving of value to them. A look at the register sheet shows that air power varies but little in a run of a day.

Fair and square dealing has had a great deal to do with creating this demand, and while Mr. Robinson has shown himself to be a manager, who has no superiors and but few equals, we must not forget to notice Miss Bettie Hopper, his able assistant and business associate who has shown herself to be both capable and willing to do valuable service for the company. Not only is she possessed of a shrewd business insight, but her desire to make some one happier is one of the pleasing characteristics of her life. And now she has a pleasant surprise in store for the miners and families to take place Christmas day, the addition of many presents to a Christmas tree, with which the miners have arranged to celebrate the holiday season. Labor appreciates such acts of kindness and the result is, all become closer united as one band of co-laborers working together for the good of all.

Magazine Club.

What proved to be one of the most pleasant meetings the Magazine Club has yet enjoyed was the one with Mrs. C. H. McGary on last Thursday afternoon. There was a full and prompt attendance and two most interesting articles, one by Mrs. Foard (Cosmopolitan) and one by Miss Hester (New Times) added much to the pleasure of the afternoon. The current events were the latest out and the refreshments were delicious. A comic selection was rendered by Mrs. Chatten and greatly enjoyed. The club adjourned to meet with the Misses Crenshaw the first Thursday in the New Year. Mrs. Chatten and Mrs. Kemp will lead and Mrs. Geo. C. Atkinson will give a select reading. The hour for the meeting is 2 o'clock.

Ireland Going to Rome.
A Washington dispatch says Archbishop Ireland is going to Rome on a suggestion from President McKinley that he would like to have him at the Vatican when the changes begin to take place in Porto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines. All these countries are Catholic and in them the church and state have been united for years. When the separation of church and state comes under the dominion of the United States, Archbishop Ireland, whose Americanism is undoubted, will be able, at Rome, to do much to serve his country and his church by his advice and counsel at the Vatican. He will carry assurances that while the administration can show no partiality to any religion, the Catholic church in the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico will be dealt with fairly in everything.

St. Charles Band Entertainment.
A choice musical and theatrical entertainment has been arranged by the St. Charles Cornet Band and Vocal Quartette and will be given at the St. Charles Hall one night next week, probably the latter part. A laughable comedy, "Irish Justice," will conclude the entertainment. The high grade of music now being rendered by the St. Charles Band would alone make the evening a success and the quartette and comedy will fill out an evening of especial enjoyment. It is more than probable that the entertainment will be reproduced at Dawson and at Halsey.

Dr. M. A. Simmons' Liver Medicine has been used by two steadily rising public favor, and the demand for it is increasing. It is a sure cure for all ailments of the liver.

NOTHING LIKE LEATHER.

Most Shoes are made of leather, but that is the only thing about them that is alike. The designing, cutting, fitting, sewing, soling, must all come in before the shoe is a shoe, and it depends upon how these are done, whether the shoe is as good as it should be or not. The firm of PINGREE & SMITH says:

"There's nothing like Leather, If it's well put together."

Our earnest effort for about twenty long years has been to sell shoes made of good leather, well put together. Most of our shoes come direct from the manufacturer to us. We buy from shoe makers who understand their business, and stand behind their work, enabling us to see to it that you "get your money's worth" when you buy your shoes of us.

BISHOP & CO.

MADISONVILLE, KY.

REV. C. C. HALL

Writes a Christmas Letter to His Friends.

EDITOR BEE:—I have not forgotten your generous offer that you made me when I was taking my departure from Earlington, that space would be allotted me to communicate to my friends at intervals, through the columns of THE BEE, and now allow me, sir, to thank you for this privilege, for I certainly esteem it as such, and take pleasure at this time in writing a few lines in token of our friendship and the high esteem in which we hold the good people of Earlington.

To begin, I will not say "I take my pen in hand, etc.," but will say that at last we have found a name for the boy "that is as plump as an orange." We thought we would give him a short name and finally settled on the familiar Benjamin Henry, and for short call him Bennie. In connection with this topic I will not forget to add that all the congratulatory letters from the Earlingtonians were received in due time, as well as the admonition of Brother F. B. Arnold to immediately buy a No. 9 hat to keep my head from bursting. For congratulations accept our thanks; for admonition, will seriously consider.

As Christmas draws near I am thinking of the wonderful gift to the world. We all expect to give and to receive presents soon, but friends, let us think of that heavenly gift that has come into the world for everyone. You and I are included in this great gift. We may have the benefits of this great blessing, though we be rich or poor. Let us not forget that we have a precious gift, in value far above rubies, tendered us. When I am thinking of this wonderful gift my heart rebounds with gladness when I know it is for me. And this gift that brings gladness is not for me alone, but for all my friends, then this thought only causes me to rejoice with greater joy. And now while you all will mingle as in times of yore remember that though I am here amid other friends, yet I will remember your kindness to me at many times while there, and will pray that at this time more people will accept the heavenly gift in your city than at any other time in the history of Earlington.

Miss Sullivan's Party.

On Tuesday evening of last week Miss Lizzie Sullivan, the popular and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sullivan of this place, gave a very charming entertainment to a large party of friends. The evening was most enjoyable. Mighty Thin.

A farmer down in Robertson county had a novel experience. In 1891 he built a small barn, and in its construction he used green willow posts at the corners and along the sides. For some time nothing unusual was noticed, but after a year he saw that, whereas, he laid the floor near the ground, it was three feet above the soil. He discovered that the willow posts, instead of being dead, were alive and had taken root and were growing. In their upward movement they had carried the barn along. Last spring the barn was on stilts nine feet high, and he put in a new siding thereby making it a two-story affair. There is now a space of seven inches between the new floor and the ground, and he expects to have a three-story barn in course of time.—Greenville Banner.

The President's Address Before Booker Washington's School

Full of Strong Counsel to the Negro Race.

The President and party first reviewed more than 600 boys and 300 girls of the Normal School and 200 children of the training school.

Each of the boys carried a stalk of sugar cane with a palm in the top, each of the girls a stalk with cotton bolls at the top, and the children carried stalks tipped with mistletoe.

President McKinley spoke as follows: Teachers and Pupils of Tuskegee: To meet you under such pleasant auspices and to have the opportunity of a personal observation of your work is indeed very gratifying. The Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute is ideal in conception, and has a large and growing reputation in this country, and is not unknown abroad. I congratulate all who are associated in this undertaking for the good work which it is doing in the education of its students to lead lives of honor and usefulness, thus exalting the race for which it was established.

"To speak of Tuskegee without paying special tribute to Booker T. Washington's genius and perseverance would be impossible. The inception of this noble enterprise was his, and he deserves high credit for it. His was the enthusiasm and the enterprise which made its steady progress possible and established in the institution its present high standard of accomplishment. He was a worthy reputation as one of the great leaders of his race, widely

He was a worthy reputation as one of the great leaders of his race, widely Known and much respected at home and abroad as an accomplished educator, a great orator and a true philanthropist.

"What steady and gratifying advances have been made here during the past fifteen years a personal inspection of the material equipment strikingly proves. The fundamental plan of the original undertaking has been steadily followed, but new features have been added; gaps in the course of instruction have been filled in; the patronage and resources have been largely increased, until even the legislative department of the State of Alabama, and finally the Congress of the United States, recognized the worth of the work and of the great opportunities here afforded.

From one small frame house the institute has grown until it includes the fine group of dormitories, recitation rooms, lecture halls and workshops, which have surprised and delighted us today. A thousand students, I am told, are here cared for by nearly a hundred teachers, all together forming, with the preparatory department, a symmetrical scholastic community, which has been well called a model for the industrial colored schools of the South. Certain it is that a pupil bent on fitting himself or herself for mechanical work can here have the widest choice of useful and domestic occupations.

"Integrity and industry are the best possessions which any man can have, and every man can have them. Nobody can give them to him nor take them from him. He can not acquire them by inheritance; he can not buy them or beg them or borrow them. They belong to the individual and are his unquestioned property. He alone can part with them. They are a good thing to have and keep. They make happy homes; they achieve success in every walk of life; they have won the greatest triumphs for mankind. No man who has them ever gets into the Police Court or before the grand jury or in the work house or the chain gang. They give one moral and material power. They will bring you a comfortable living, make you respect yourself and command the respect of your fellows. They are invincible. The merchant requires the clerk whom he employs to have them. The railroad corporation inquires whether the man seeking employment possesses them. Every avenue of human endeavor welcomes them. They are the only keys to open with certainty the door of opportunity to struggling manhood. Employment waits on them; capital requires them; citizenship is not good without them. If you don't already have them, get them.

"In comparing the past with the present you should be especially grateful that it has been your good fortune to come within the influence of such an institution as that of Tuskegee, and that you are under the guidance of such a strong leader. I thank him most cordially for the pleasure of visiting this institution, and I bring to all here associated my good will and the best wishes of your countrymen, wishing you the realization of success in whatever undertakings may hereafter engage you.

DEAD AND DOWN TIMBER.

Report of Special Indian Agent Jenkins to Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones.

SOURCE OF THE CHIPPEWA TROUBLES.

The Loggers Cut Not Only the Dead and Down Timber, but the Green and Standing as Well, and Then Swindle Their Indian Laborers out of Their Due at Every Turn.

Washington, Dec. 20.—Special Indian Agent Jenkins, in a report just submitted to Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones, on the investigation of the timber operations on the Chippewa reservation in Minnesota, makes some statements radically differing with those in other reports. SEÑOR MONTE RIOS' WAIL.

An Interview with M. De Blowitz, the Paris Correspondent of the London Times.

A PAINFUL MISSION IS FULFILLED.

The Spaniards Knew They Had to Deal with an Implacable Conqueror. The Americans Have Acted as "Vainqueur Parvenus," but May Yet Know What It is to Suffer Defeat.

London, Dec. 19.—The following is an extract from the interview between Señor Montero Rios, president of the Spanish peace commission, and M. De Blowitz, the Paris correspondent of the London Times, published in that paper. Señor Montero Rios is quoted as saying:

"We have fulfilled here a very painful mission in which it is impossible to dream of looking forward with any satisfaction, but that of doing our duty. We depart without other consolation than the exclamation: 'All is lost save honor.'"

"We knew in advance that we should have to deal with an implacable conqueror, who would in no way concern himself with any pre-existing international law, but whose sole object was to reap from victory the largest possible advantage. This conception of international law is absolutely new. It is no longer a case of might against right, but of might without right. As for us, we had only to protect ourselves against the abuse of which it was desired to inflict upon us and to prove, in spite of our blunders and mistakes, that we had not compromised the proverbial loyalty to the Castilian fatherland."

"Misfortune also has grandeur. The Americans have acted as 'Vainqueur parvenus' (Upstart conquerors). They do not yet know the misfortune of defeat, but there are things which the misfortune of defeat can never escape. As for us, we had only to protect ourselves against the abuse of which it was desired to inflict upon us and to prove, in spite of our blunders and mistakes, that we had not compromised the proverbial loyalty to the Castilian fatherland."
